Eleven Kentucky Units Mobilized

Orders Step - Up Training For Seven Units

Eleven Kentucky Army National Guard companies have reported for a year of active federal service. In addition, seven other units have been ordered to step up their training in combat subjects, accept prior-service enlistments to obtain full authorized TO&E strength, and increase the number of monthly drills from four to six drills per month.

The alert for actual mobilization for 11 Kentucky units was received on two separate occasions. The first call, received August 25th, alerted the 5 companies of the 3rd Medium Tank Battalion, 123 Armor, commanded by Lt. Col. Nelson A. Meredith; and the 413 Ordnance Company, commanded by Capt. Calvin Knoop. All of these units began active duty on October 1. The Ordnance Company reported to Fort Stewart Georgia on October 7 and the Tank Battalion reported to Fort Knox Kentucky on October 10.

The second alert, received September 19, ordered the five companies of the

OCS Class 4 - 62 Accelerated To Permit December Graduation

New Class To Start In January

The Berlin situation—resulting in the alert of 20 per cent of Kentucky Guard units—also snapped the Kentucky Army National Guard's Officer Candidate School into increased activities and the current class is expected to graduate in December 1961 instead of the original target date of June 1962.

All candidates in the State have been attending weekend drills every week since the last of September in order to effect the stepped up program.

In addition, several candidates enrolled in the course, who were members of activated National Guard units, were given the opportunity to attend a concentrated two-week course which would enable them to be commissioned prior to entering Federal service.

Four of the seven eligible candidates attended the course at the Indiantown Gap Military Reservation in Pennsylvania. They were: SSGT Charles E. Farley, Paducah; SGT Bobby G. Smith, Paducah; PFC Alan Winkenhof, Bowling Green, and SGT John M. Harris, Hopkinsville. All reported with the Second Medium Tank Battalion at Fort Stewart Georgia, October 28 as Second Lieutenants.

Captain William C. Morris, Commandant of the school noted that the state's OCS program is flexible and can

Walker's Rifle Team Successful At National Matches

The legend of a Kentuckian's ability to handle a rifle was certainly upheld by ten members of Battery B, 3rd Howitzer Battalion of Ravenna, when the group, commanded by Capt. Robert T. Walker, represented the State at the National Rifle and Pistol Matches, August 12-27 at Camp Perry, Ohio.

The team, first to represent the Kentucky National Guard at the National Matches since World War II, gave an

Observation Battalion Redesignated

The 5th Observation Battalion has been ordered redesignated by the National Guard Bureau to the 5th Target Acquisition Battalion, 138th Artillery.

The new designation will authorize the organization to receive some of the latest available Army equipment, including radar and a remote controlled Drone aircraft for aerial photos and a tellurometer, valued at $130,000, used for determining precise directions and distances of "line of site targets up to 40 miles away.

The Battalion's Headquarters Battery, commanded by Capt. Ronald J. Lynn, has been authorized a strength increase of 22 men to man the new equipment.

THE AG SPEAKS

By Major General A. Y. Lloyd

The tense struggle between East and West has necessitated the need for additional men to bolster the ranks of the Active Army. As in World War II and the Korean Conflict, mobilization has again been ordered for some units of the Kentucky Army National Guard.

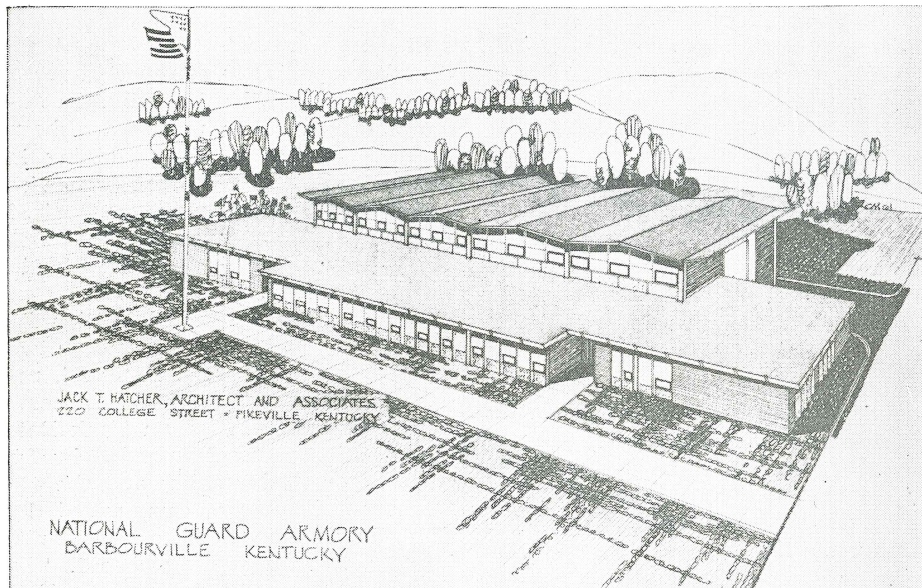

It is a compliment that our Kentucky National Guard had units in the first alert order. Since the initial call, Kentucky has had 20 per cent of its Army units ordered to active duty. This is well above the national average of 12 per cent. This, to me, reflects the high state of readiness and excellent training of our Guard and should be a reason for all Kentuckians to be proud.

I had the pleasure of visiting Fort Knox, Kentucky, to witness the arrival of the 3d Medium Tank Battalion, 123d Armor, and I also visited Fort Stewart, Georgia, to observe the arrival of the 2d Medium Tank Battalion, 123d Armor and to visit the 413th Ordnance Company. It is gratifying to see units of the National Guard being integrated into Federal Service with a minimum of difficulty. Without exception these units displayed a very high degree of morale and esprit-de-corps which is indicative of a well trained and capable unit. It also indicates that the state of training attained by the Kentucky National Guard is close to that of our active army.

Eight additional Army Guard units have been placed in a stepped up training program which authorizes two additional drills per month. They are Hq & Hq Battery, XXIII Corps Artillery, the four Batteries of the 5th Target Acquisition Battalion, 103d Signal Company, 113th Ordnance Company and 207th Engineer Company. Should there be a further call-up, these units would probably be called into Federal Service. Again, I think this speaks very highly of the Kentucky National Guard and I am very pleased to see our units ranked among the best in the nation.

Col. William H. Webster, Commander of the 123d Tactical Reconnaissance Wing, said the percentage of donations (33%) was the highest in the unit's history.

Passing In Review

ASHLAND'S PUTNAM FIELD IMPROVED—National Guard bulldozers and other Engineer equipment is being used in Ashland to improve the Putnam Stadium practice football field. The project, being performed as a public service by members of the 201st Engineer Battalion, has provided a number of hours of "On The Job Training" normally available only at Summer Field Training and at the same time the unit has been performing a worthy service to the Ashland Community.

PUBLICATION TO BE DISTRIBUTED TO ACTIVE UNITS—Members of

Kentucky National Guard units that have been called into active federal service will continue to receive copies of the quarterly publication, "The Kentucky Guardsman" while they are on active duty. Sufficient copies will be mailed to unit commanders of active units for distribution.

TWENTY-EGHT GALLONS OF LIFE

—Two hundred twenty-seven Kentucky Air National Guardsmen donated a pint of blood each to the Red Cross regional blood bank when the Bloodmobile recently visited Shewmaker ANG Base in Louisville.

ARMORY DEDICATED — Members of Company D, 1st Medium Tank Battalion have moved into their new armory in Middlesboro after the structure was dedicated by Assistant Adjutant General Brigadier General William R. Buster, as "a monument to Peace in the names of the men of Company D and the Citizens of Middlesboro." In the top photo 2d Lt. George F. Hughes, left, and 1st Lt. Donald W. Peck show a group of youngsters at the dedication the operation of a M-48 tank turret trainer. In the picture at left, Lt. Col. Calvert P. Small, left, Chief of Facilities Division for the Department of Military Affairs and 1st Sgt. T. B. Taylor, Middlesboro, AST for Company D, looks at the front of the new armory following dedication ceremonies. The company is commanded by Capt. Austin Redmon. (133d PID Photos).

BAND MEMBERS RECEIVE AWARDS

—All 29 members of the 202d Army Band of Ashland were presented an award during the second week of Summer Field Training at Camp Breckinridge by Major General Arthur Y. Lloyd. CWO William E. Clark and MSGT Edwin F. Conley were awarded the Kentucky Medal for Merit. SFC James R. Kilgore, SSGT Ronald K. Ball, SGT Harold L. Shafer, SGT Ronald L. Baker, SGT William H. Broughton, and SP4 Charles W. Blackwell were awarded the Oak Leaf Cluster to the Kentucky Commendation Ribbon, and the remaining 21 band members were awarded the Kentucky Commendation Ribbon.

GUARDSMEN DONATE BLOOD — In the past six years, members of Battery A, 2nd Howitzer Battalion have donated more than 200 pints of blood to needy persons in their community, it has been reported by SFC Robert J. Caldwell, a member of the Battery. The organization has been one of the major groups in the city to support the charitable project. The Carroll County Memorial Hospital blood types all personnel free of charge and members receive a donors card for each pint of blood donated.

ANG MAJOR TO ASSIST NGB — Major William H. Beck, Chief of Maintenance of the 123d Tactical Reconnaissance Wing, Louisville, has been ordered to active duty for 45 days at the National Guard Bureau, in Washington, D.C., beginning October 23. He will aid in preparing a supplement to Air Force Manual 66-1, Maintenance - Engineering, Organizational and Field Maintenance Manual. Major Beck will also assist in plans to install additional camera equipment in the RB-57s of the Kentucky Air National Guard.

Promotions

Ladies Auxiliary Benefit Both Hubby And Wife

By CAPT. J. W. HEATON

Some of the wives of Kentucky National Guardsmen are finding out that their husbands have a lot of hard work to perform during that one-night-a-week drill period which, it seems, he is continually attending. One of the wives, after visiting an armory drill commented, "Why I was right surprised at all the work that was going on!"

The wives who seem to be better informed about the National Guard and what is going on are members of the two recently organized Ladies Auxiliary of the Kentucky National Guard. Both organizations were formed this year. Wives of the enlisted personnel of Hq & Hq Co, 149th Armor Group in St. Matthews, held their organizational meeting in January and just last June, the second auxiliary using the name "National Guard Officers Auxiliary of the 201st Engineer Battalion," held their first meeting and are presently in the stages of drawing up a constitution and by-laws.

After talking with several husbands of Auxiliary members the general feeling is that the newly formed organizations help to keep the little women "off our backs" about being gone for drills and as the ladies understand more about the Guard this seems to counteract the feeling of being a "National Guard Widow."

First Lt. Gary L. Arthur, who commands Hq Co, 201st Engineer in Ashland said "the Auxiliary gives the wives a better outlook on their husbands spending so much time at the Armory or having to go to summer camp." Lt. Arthur's wife was recently elected President of the Ashland Auxiliary.

Mrs. Arthur pointed out that her husband usually spends eight to ten hours each week on Guard business and the Auxiliary "lets me get to know the other officer's wives better, therefore I feel I know more about the people he works with at the Armory and mentions at home."

Both Auxiliaries are very active. The Auxiliary for the Armor Group even boasts a bank account of more than $70.00. They raised this money by conducting an auction, holding a raffle for a transistor radio and holding a card party. Both groups have a membership dues which range between $3.00 and $5.00.

In Ashland, the gals are starting to sell Christmas cards now but soon hope to have other money making projects in progress. "Our goal is to completely decorate and furnish a dayroom in the Armory which now doesn't have much of anything in it," Mrs. Arthur reported. They will hold their meetings there when this is done. Presently they are meeting in various homes.

Picnics, home maker projects, a Christmas dance, flower arrangement classes, Civil Defense programs and furniture refinishing are among the projects the two organizations regularly tackle. Just the last of September one Auxiliary sponsored a successful hayride.

Mrs. Marion F. Williams, President of the 149th Armor Group Ladies Auxiliary, said their auxiliary tries to attend one drill per quarter when it is appropriate. In one case they sat in with the unit on a class of Civil Defense instruction. On another occasion they have served coffee and cookies during the ten minute break. At the last ANACDUTRA, the wives were served a Saturday noon meal during the middle weekend while the unit was at Summer Camp at Fort Knox.

They receive a lot of requests for copies of their Constitution and By-Laws from other cities around the nation from wives interested in forming a similar organization. Actually they patterned their organization and Constitution from information received from an Auxiliary of the Illinois National Guard.

The girls all seem to enjoy getting together for their regular meetings and both organizations, though small, seem to be growing steadily.

Officers of the 149th Armor Ladies Auxiliary are Mrs. Marion F. Williams, president; Mrs. Donald Ross, vice-president; Mrs. Eugene Hinderer, secretary; Mrs. Robert Herman, treasurer and Mrs. Richard Greenrose, corresponding secretary.

Officers of the National Guard Officers Auxiliary of Ashland are Mrs. Gary Arthur, president; Mrs. Billy G. Wellman, vice-president; Mrs. Maurice McNeal, secretary; and Mrs. Robert Dezarne, treasurer.

PLANTING HEDGE FENCE—Starting a hedge fence at the Springfield Armory is one of the many projects tackled by 1st SGT Robert B. Milburn to beautify the Guard Armory.

Springfield Unit Improves Appearance Of Local Armory

With the special attention of 1st Sgt Robert B. Milburn, the appearance of the Springfield National Guard Armory is steadily improving. Milburn, AST for Service Battery of the 4th Howitzer Battalion, has planted rose bushes, evergreens, flowers and a hedge fence to improve the looks of the armory grounds.

Inside, under the guidance of Capt. James R. Thompson, unit commander, and Sgt Milburn, unit personnel have completely repainted the interior, installed a partition creating a new battery commander's office; installed the fixtures for a kitchen and dining room, and have built a signal room for communication personnel.

The Facilities Division of the Department of Military Affairs recently gave the unit some assistance, in armory improvements by pouring a new concrete floor, and having the exterior trim of the building repainted.

In addition to the help of unit personnel, Milburn has received a helping hand from his 12-year-old son, Roger who has taken a personal interest in the Armory appearance.

Much of the work performed is in line with the Armory Improvement and Beautification contest announced by the State Adjutant General last March.

The Kentucky National Guard was well represented at the Kentucky State Fair in September when it unveiled an attractive 15 foot photo display which helped to tell the elaborate training and preparedness program under which the Guard operates.

The display, made of plywood, and pegboard panels has a suspended overhead lighting unit which announces "Your National Guard is Ready." Two self-standing side display units contain translite pictures illuminated by fluorescent fixtures inside.

Basic design and construction work on the professional looking exhibit was conceived and performed by MSGT Frank J. Maloney, photographic technician for the 165th Tactical Reconnaissance Wing, of the Kentucky Air National Guard. Maloney spent a great number of overtime hours in construction of the attractive unit. He was assisted by a number of other Air Guard officers and men in the project.

Air Guardsmen Participate In Swift Strike at Shaw AFB

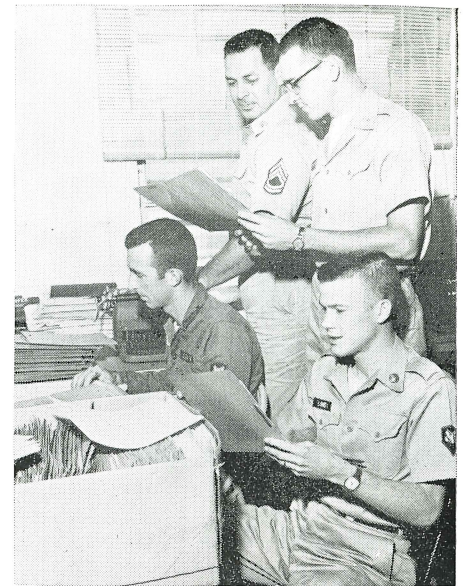

Sixty men of the Kentucky Air National Guard were assigned to Shaw Air Force Base near Charleston, S.C., Aug. 6-20 to take part in Exercise Swift Strike, a joint Army and Air Force field training exercise.

They are members of the 123d Tactical Reconnaissance Wing, KyANG.

Eight B-57 jet aircraft were deployed to Shaw to fly a minimum of 12 reconnaissance sorties daily during the two-week exercise.

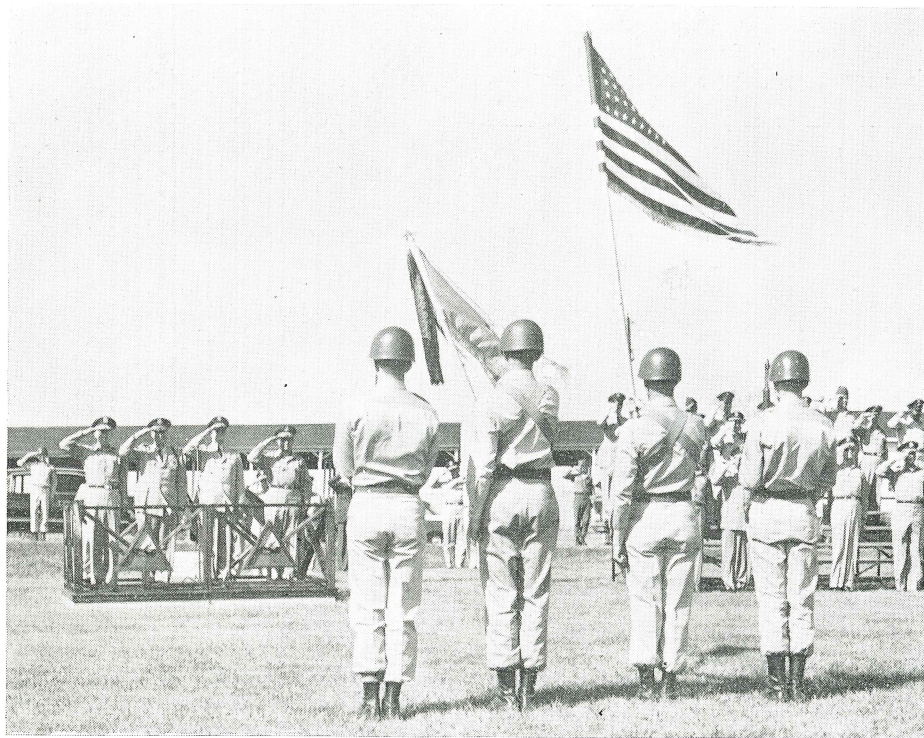

About 30,000 Army personnel supported by 400 aircraft took part in the operation which ranged across North and South Carolina. Six airborne battle groups were dropped during the two-week mock battle designed to test United States effectiveness in fighting a "limited war."

REPORTING FOR ACTIVE DUTY—Four Kentucky Guardsmen presented the Battalion Colors of the 3rd Medium Tank Battalion to the Post Commander of Fort Knox, Ky., in a brief ceremony upon their arrival at the Armor Training Center October 10. The Guardsmen, now part of the regular Army troops for a year, watched the presentation from a Battalion formation. On the reviewing stand were, right to left, Brigadier General Joseph E. Bastion, Jr., Commanding General of Fort Knox; Major General Arthur Y. Lloyd, The Adjutant General of Kentucky; Brigadier General William R. Buster, Assistant Adjutant General, and Colonel William L. Blake, School Troops Commander at Fort Knox. After the ceremony, the troops, commanded by Lt. Colonel Nelson A. Meredith, of Bowling Green, moved into their barracks which had been readied by a "sponsor" unit from regular Fort Knox forces. (133d PID Photo)

CANDIDATE FOR QUEEN — Miss Mahala Leachman, of Springfield, was chosen to represent the Department of Military Affairs in a Beauty Queen contest held at the annual State Employees picnic held in Frankfort October 9. Miss Leachman works in the Directors Office of the department's Veteran's Division.

Mobilization

2nd Medium Tank Battalion to a year of active duty beginning October 15. This Battalion, commanded by Lt. Col. William E. Hall, reported to Fort Stewart Georgia on October 28.

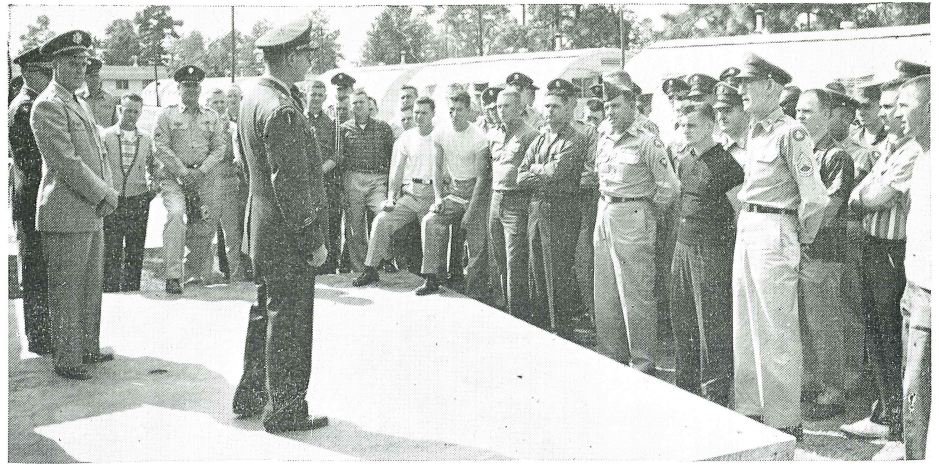

A number of other Kentucky National Guard units were placed in a "stepped-up training" status in orders received September 6. The Second Battalion was originally listed among these units. Other units, ordered to this status are: Hq & Hq Btry, XXIII Corps Artillery, commanded by Brigadier General William R. Buster; the 5th Target Acquisition Battalion, commanded by Lt. Col. Stanton T. Smith; the 113th Ordnance Company, commanded by 1st Lt. John W. Adkins; and the 103d Signal Company, commanded by 1st Lt. Earl T. Wheat. In addition, the 207th Engineer Company, commanded by Capt. Robert L. Dezarn, was ordered to comply with all instruction of the "stepped-up training" order except they were not allotted the extra drills for training.

Although the September 6th order specifically stated that the "stepped-up training" status should not indicate a probable alert, it is anticipated that these units would likely be the ones to be tapped in any future alert which might be received.

Major General Arthur Y. Lloyd, Adjutant General of Kentucky speculated that "it is anticipated that the troops that have been or might be called in the future, will likely be used as replacement troops in the Continental United States to take the place of regular Army units moving overseas." So far, this statement has held true in the case of units which recently reported for active duty.

A list of units, which have reported to active duty, the unit home station and commander are, the 413 Ordnance Company, Frankfort, Capt. Calvin L. Knoop; the 3rd Medium Tank Battalion, Hq, Bowling Green, Lt. Col. Nelson A. Meredith; Hq Co, Bowling Green, Capt. Robert C. Pemberton, Jr.; Co A, Russellville, Capt. Daniel E. Bentley; Co. B, Hopkinsville, Capt. Herschel B. Stephens; Co. C, Madisonville, Capt. Garland W. Pence, and Co. D, Marion, Capt. Edward A. Runyan.

The 2d Medium Tank Battalion list, includes, Hq, Owensboro, Lt. Col. William E. Hall; Hq Co. Owensboro, Capt. James L. Brady; Co. A, Livermore, Capt. Ellis A. Price; Co. B, Paducah, Capt. Jack W. Rees; Co. C, Henderson, Capt. Thomas E. Lett, Jr., and Co. D, Paducah, Capt. Lawrence C. Bladon.

excellent performance and won a number of team and individual awards.

SFC William A. Spicer was awarded a Silver Medal for first place winner in 110 shooters in the Coast Guard Trophy Match. 1st Lt. Robert C. Flynn received a bronze medal for fourth place winner in 110 shooters in the Air Force Cup Match and 2d Lt. Verlon W. Prewitt also received a bronze medal for fourth place in 110 shooters in the Crowell Trophy Match. SSGT Larry E. Hunt placed 11th in 110 shooters in the Marine Corps Cup Match.

The team participated in four team matches. They won first place in unclassified teams in both the Nevada Trophy Team Match and the Rumboldt Trophy Team Match. They placed second in unclassified teams in the Enlisted Men's Trophy Team Match and finished 90th of 97 teams in the Infantry Team Match.

Current plans call for a new Officer Candidate Class #5-62 to start in January. Enlisted men who are interested in earning a commission should contact their unit commander immediately, Morris said.

ON PARADE—A unit of the Kentucky Army National Guard approaches the reviewing stand in this dramatic photograph taken by SP5 Ronnie P. Thompson during the annual "Governor's Day Review". The parade, held July 27th at Camp Breckinridge, was illuminated by Kentucky Guard Searchlights, furnished by Battery A, Searchlight, 138th Artillery of Louisville. The Searchlight Battery was selected as the unit with the best appearance during the parade. (133d PID Photo)

LT. COL. ROBERT K. HENDRICKS ACCEPTS AWARD—Major General Arthur Y. Lloyd, Adjutant General of Kentucky, right, is shown as he presents Lt. Col. Hendricks with a plaque signifying the highest degree of Air National Guard Operational Readiness of ANG Units with B-57 Aircraft. The award was sponsored by the National Guard Association of the United States, and presented during recent ceremonies at Shewmaker ANG Base, Louisville, Kentucky. Col. Hendricks is Commander of the 165th Tactical Reconnaissance Squadron, Kentucky Air National Guard. (KyANG Photo)

ARMY AREA CONFERENCE—More than 200 key National Guard and Regular Army officers from the 2nd Army Area, attended the National Guard Bureau's Second Army Area Conference which was held in the State Capitol Building in Frankfort, October 19-20. Looking over a conference program above are, left to right, Major General Rinaldo Van Brunt, Deputy Commanding General of the Second Army; Major General Arthur Y. Lloyd, Adjutant General of Kentucky; and Major General Clayton P. Kerr, Assistant Chief, National Guard Bureau. Kentucky was the host state for the conference which provides Guardsmen from seven states and the District of Columbia an opportunity to discuss, with National Guard Bureau and Second Army officials, common problems and needs in maintenance, administration and Training. (Ky. Dept. of PI Photo)

TRIPLE THREAT—This member of the State Headquarters Detachment, Frankfort, poses a triple threat, but it was not immediately reported whether he was speaking Cuban, Kentucky Colonialism or Pig Latin, and it was not disclosed exactly to whom he was a threat. Actually M. Sgt. James L. Gatewood, Sergeant Major for the ARNG, was taking advantage of a ten-minute break during rifle range training at Fort Knox. (133d PID Photo).
